SIGNIFICANT ENGAGEMENTS

- Represented plaintiffs in two police shooting cases before the United States Supreme Court. I was counsel of record and argued in both matters. In the first case, the plaintiff asserted Americans with Disabilities Act and excessive force claims against San Francisco police officers who entered her apartment and shot her when she responded in a threatening manner. City and County of San Francisco v. Sheehan (U.S. Sup. Ct.). In the second, the plaintiffs asserted unlawful entry, excessive force, and negligence claims against Los Angeles police officers who unlawfully entered their home and shot them upon perceiving a threat. Mendez v. County of Los Angeles (U.S. Sup. Ct.; 9th Cir.).
- Represented decedent’s estate as assignee of policyholder in asserting coverage and bad faith claims against insurance company. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that insurer breached duty to defend and reversed district court’s contrary holding. The matter promptly settled on remand. Mitchell v. American Reliable Insurance Company (Ninth Circuit; D. Mont.).
- Represented Microsoft in defending claims under federal antitrust laws, California state unfair competition laws and copyright law, alleging monopolization, attempted monopolization, tying, unfair competition and copyright infringement. The Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in favor of Microsoft in two separate appeals: one regarding the district court’s preliminary injunction ruling and the other regarding the court’s collateral estoppel ruling. Sun Microsystems, Inc. v. Microsoft Corp. (Fourth Circuit; D. Md.).
