

Seattle University School of Law Summer Institute for Technology, Innovation, and Entrepreneurship 2024 Application and Registration Form

Personal Information

Name (last, first, middle initial)
Student ID	Date of Birth
Present Address: Street
City	State	Zip
Phone
Email
Academic Standing
Year in school (1L, 2L, 3L)	Anticipa	ated Graduation Date
Are you in good academic standing and eligible	to participate in the program	n? Yes No
Home Institution Information
School Name
School Address (street, city, zip)
Attendance Dates: From	То
		etter must come from a dean or the registrar and should indicate that urses at Seattle University School of Law. Have the letter sent directly

Sheila Underwood, Registrar Seattle University School of Law 901 12th Ave Seattle, WA 98122

Certification

I hereby certify that, to the best of my knowledge, all information provided above is correct and complete. I agree to pay all applicable tuition charges and fees. I confirm that I have read and agree to the SITIE Course Terms and Conditions. I authorize Seattle University School of Law to report my grades to my home institution.

Signature

Seattle University School of Law Summer Institute for Technology, Innovation, and Entrepreneurship 2024 Application and Registration Form

Registration

Check all courses for which you'd like to register.

 Steven Tapia, Distinguished Practitioner in Residence Steven Bender, Professor Additional faculty TBA Schedule: Monday, May 20-Thursday, May 23. Count on days that week beginning approximately 9am and ending approximately 7pr The course will include the online proceedings of the 6th Annual Symposium on Innovation and Technology, to be held either Friday, 31 OR Friday June 7 (from approximately 9am to 4pm). In-person/Online: The Innovation course is planned to take place in-person this year except for the virtual Annual Symposium and so or all of the day Thursday May 23. Dive into an exploration of the major business, legal, and ethical issues at play in technology and innovation businesses and get first- hand experience with some of the business environments responsible for the major recent entrepreneurial successes in the Seattle region and elsewhere. Students will: Meet innovators and their lawyers virtually or in-person; Examine environments that foster creativity and produce innovation; Receive an introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business in the 2020s See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. 	ר	Lawyering for Entrepreneurship and Innovation, INTP-550-SI, 3 semester credits
Steven Bender, Professor Additional faculty TBA Schedule: Monday, May 20. Thursday, May 23. Count on days that week beginning approximately 9am and ending approximately 7pr The course will include the online proceedings of the 6th Annual Symposium on Innovation and Technology, to be held either Friday, 31 OR Friday June 7 (from approximately 9am to 4pm). In-person/Online: The Innovation course is planned to take place in-person this year except for the virtual Annual Symposium and sou or all of the day Thursday May 23. Dive into an exploration of the major business, legal, and ethical issues at play in technology and innovation businesses and get first- hand experience with some of the business environments responsible for the major recent entrepreneurial successes in the Seattle region and elsewhere. Students will: Meet innovators and their lawyers virtually or in-person; Receive an introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business in the 2020s See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurisl success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurist black. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, di film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins S-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, M		Faculty:
Additional faculty TBA Schedule: Konday, May 20-Thursday, May 23. Count on days that week beginning approximately 9am and ending approximately 7pr The course will include the online proceedings of the 6th Annual Symposium on Innovation and Technology, to be held either Friday, 31 OR Friday June 7 (from approximately 9am to 4pm). In-person/Online: The Innovation course is planned to take place in-person this year except for the virtual Annual Symposium and soi or all of the day Thursday May 23. Dive into an exploration of the major business, legal, and ethical issues at play in technology and innovation businesses and get first- hand experience with some of the business environments responsible for the major recent entrepreneurial successes in the Seattle region and elsewhere. Students will: Meet innovators and their lawyers virtually or in-person; Examine environments that foster creativity and produce innovation; Receive an introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business in the 2020s See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business, active reflections, dt film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins G-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Compl Schedule: Monday, May 20-Thursday, May 23. Count on days that week beginning approximately 9am and ending approximately 7pr The course will include the online proceedings of the 6th Annual Symposium on Innovation and Technology, to be held either Friday, 31 OR Friday June 7 (from approximately 9am to 4pm). In-person/Online: The Innovation course is planned to take place in-person this year except for the virtual Annual Symposium and soi or all of the day Thursday May 23. Dive into an exploration of the major business, legal, and ethical issues at play in technology and innovation businesses and get first-hand experience with some of the business environments responsible for the major recent entrepreneurial successes in the Seattle region and elsewhere. Students will: Meet innovators and their lawyers virtually or in-person; Examine environments that foster creativity and produce innovation; Receive an introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business in the 2020s See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the waing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, di film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills
The course will include the online proceedings of the 6th Annual Symposium on Innovation and Technology, to be held either Friday, 31 OR Friday June 7 (from approximately 9am to 4pm). In-person/Online: The Innovation course is planned to take place in-person this year except for the virtual Annual Symposium and sor or all of the day Thursday May 23. Dive into an exploration of the major business, legal, and ethical issues at play in technology and innovation businesses and get first- hand experience with some of the business environments responsible for the major recent entrepreneurial successes in the Seattle region and elsewhere. Students will: • Meet innovators and their lawyers virtually or in-person; • Examine environments that foster creativity and produce innovation; • Receive an introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business in the 2020s • See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; • Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success. particularly in the technology sector; • Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and • Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, di film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: • Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins • 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period • One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) • Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 • Completing the final project after the course meetings end Itotal SITE Courses, June or all of the day Thursday May 23. Dive into an exploration of the major business, legal, and ethical issues at play in technology and innovation businesses and get first- hand experience with some of the business environments responsible for the major recent entrepreneurial successes in the Seattle region and elsewhere. Students will: Meet innovators and their lawyers virtually or in-person; Examine environments that foster creativity and produce innovation; Receive an introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business in the 2020s See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, difilm discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday. May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing		The course will include the online proceedings of the 6th Annual Symposium on Innovation and Technology, to be held either Friday, N
hand experience with some of the business environments responsible for the major recent entrepreneurial successes in the Seattle region and elsewhere. Students will: Meet innovators and their lawyers virtually or in-person; Examine environments that foster creativity and produce innovation; Receive an introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business in the 2020s See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, di film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins Optional course meeting/informal discussion conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Itional STIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024 Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-S1, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal		In-person/Online: The Innovation course is planned to take place in-person this year except for the virtual Annual Symposium and son or all of the day Thursday May 23.
 Meet innovators and their lawyers virtually or in-person; Examine environments that foster creativity and produce innovation; Receive an introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business in the 2020s See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, di film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Itional SITIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024 Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a s		hand experience with some of the business environments responsible for the major recent entrepreneurial successes in the Seattle
 Examine environments that foster creativity and produce innovation; Receive an introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business in the 2020s See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, di film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Itional SITIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024 Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use		Students will:
 Receive an introduction to strategic and disruptive technologies that will reshape business in the 2020s See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, di film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Intersion Structure: Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery o		Meet innovators and their lawyers virtually or in-person;
 See how ethical questions are handled in the business world—both properly and poorly; Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, da film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Itional SITIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024 Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal 		Examine environments that foster creativity and produce innovation;
 Learn how lawyers add value and contribute to entrepreneurial success, particularly in the technology sector; Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, di film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Ititional SITIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024 Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAl), in the delivery of legal Consider some of the vexing policy issues that surround innovation in the technology sector; and Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, da film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Itional SITIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024 Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal Receive an intensive introduction to how entrepreneurs think. The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, di film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Intension SITIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024 Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success. Immersion Course Structure: • Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins • 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period • One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) • Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 • Completing the final project after the course meetings end litional SITIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024 Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal
 Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law , INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal		The course curriculum combines lively classroom experiences, policy discussions, intriguing background readings, active reflections, da film discussions, as well as highly interactive and immersive dialogue with legal practitioners and their clients, all meant to impart the knowledges, skills, and values needed to contribute to ethical entrepreneurial success.
 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal		Immersion Course Structure:
 9-day or more advance reading and preparation period One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal		 Optional course meeting/informal discussion online the week before the course begins
 One intensive instruction week full-time for 4 days (May 20-23) Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7 Completing the final project after the course meetings end Interview of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal Completing the final project after the course meetings end Iitional SITIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024 Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal
Iitional SITIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024 Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal		 Attendance at the online Innovation conference Friday, May 31 OR Friday June 7
Artificial Intelligence and the Practice of Law, INTP-560-SI, 2 semester credits Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal		Completing the final project after the course meetings end
 Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation) Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal 	liti	onal SITIE Courses, June 3 – June 29, 2024
 Schedule: June 4-27 T /Th – 2:00-3:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Friday, June 21. Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal 	٦
Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform. The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal		Faculty: LeighAnne Thompson (Associate Director, Law Library Digital Innovation)
The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal
		Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform.
		The course will explore the use of artificial intelligence, including generative artificial intelligence (GenAI), in the delivery of legal

Seattle University School of Law Summer Institute for Technology, Innovation, and Entrepreneurship 2024 Application and Registration Form Seattle University School of Law Office of the Registrar 901 12th Ave Seattle, WA 98122 Lawreg@seattleu.edu (206) 398-4150

-
	Counseling Startups: Law, Regulation and Fundraising, BUSN-560SI 2 semester credits
	Faculty: Paul Swegle (General Counsel & Secretary of CareXM, PolyVascular, Observa, and Chapterly)
	Schedule: J u n e 4 -June 27 T/Th - 4:00-5:50 p.m. plus one all-day session on Saturday, June 29.
	Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform.
	Launching a company requires thoughtful decision-making and careful execution of myriad legal and regulatory tasks-all at the speed of business, and with limited resources. This course is about advising entrepreneurs and startups how to build, grow, and finance innovative businesses and how to prevent and address common legal, governance, and regulatory challenges.
	The course is split into two sections:
	• First half – business law fundamentals for advising startups, including choosing the best entity-type, forming companies soundly, protecting intellectual property, and minimizing friction and uncertainty by proactively structuring relationships with and among co-founders, employees, board members, and independent contractors.
	the right terms. Running out of cash is the second most common reason startups fail. Lawyers who can help founders succeed at early-stage fundraising are invaluable. Learn about startup fundraising processes, terminology, instruments, participants, regulations, and key strategies for fundraising success.
	The Role of In-House Counsel: Lawyering within an Organization, LPRC-325-SI, 2 semester credits
	Faculty: Maja Larson (Equinox Business Law Group, Vice President, Client Services)
	racuity. Initia Larson (Equinox Business Law Group, vice rresident, elicitic Scruces)
	Schodules June 20 M/M 400 5:50 p.m. plus and all day section on Friday, June 20
	Schedule: June 3-June 26 M/W – 4:00-5:50 p.m., plus one all-day session on Friday, June 28.
	Online: All course sessions will be conducted online via Zoom or a similar platform.
	Learn the role and responsibilities of an in-house lawyer, a unique position that must understand multiple practice areas and possess a working knowledge of business principles. Students study the legal challenges of a company and work through how best to counsel their internal clients on risks and issues. Each class has guests who are legal and business professionals to help students understand the role from multiple perspectives.
L

Summer Institute Course Terms and Conditions

Eligibility and Acceptance

All 2L, 3L, 4L and LL.M. students in good standing at ABA accredited US Law Schools are eligible to participate in this program. Space in the immersion course is limited.

Tuition and Refunds

Tuition for the Summer Institute courses is TBA per credit. The immersion course has an additional $50 course fee. The cost of housing, food and transportation are not included in tuition. Financial aid recipients should contact Student Financial Services at lawfa@seatttleu.edu or (206) 398-4250 for information on consortium agreements.

Students who drop the immersion course on or before Wednesday, May 8, 2024 will receive a full tuition refund. Students who drop the immersion course between Thursday, May 9 and Monday, May 20, 2024 will receive a full tuition refund minus a $200 late-drop fee. No refunds will be issued for immersion course tuition after May 20, 2022 unless a student is unable to attend class because of illness or emergency.

All other Summer Institute classes are subject to Seattle University's standard summer refund policy. See the Student Handbook for details.

Syllabus and Itinerary Changes

The course syllabus and itinerary are subject to modification and change by Seattle University School of Law. Every reasonable effort will be made to operate the program as planned, but alterations may still occur after final syllabi and itineraries are sent. Any changes to the syllabus or itinerary will be communicated to participants as soon as reasonably possible.